I. SOPHIA UNIVERSITY

Sophia University was founded in 1913 by the Jesuits, a Catholic order renowned for excellence in education. From the beginning, the university founders stressed an internationally oriented curriculum and rigorous training in foreign languages. Today, Sophia University is a major teaching and research university in arts and sciences with students, and faculty members encompassing dozens of nationalities. Graduate education at Sophia has been recognized for excellence by the Ministry of Education, Culture, Sports, Science and Technology - Japan (MEXT) through Center of Excellence and Attractive Graduate Education awards.

II. GRADUATE PROGRAM IN SCIENCE AND TECHNOLOGY (GPST)

Our graduate program was established in 1966 to provide advanced professional education for students in science and engineering. Since then, it has developed into one of the major science and engineering programs in Japan, with numerous active and well-funded research projects. We address both the quest to understand the basic working of nature and the desire to put this understanding to practical use. Another important objective is to educate scientists and engineers with a broad perspective, capable of working in the international arena. The program consists of nine divisions, including the Green Science and Engineering Division.

1. DIVISIONS

The graduate program consists of the following nine divisions.

- | | | |
|---------------------------|---|----------------------------------|
| 1) Mechanical Engineering | 2) Electrical and Electronics Engineering | 3) Applied Chemistry |
| 4) Chemistry | 5) Mathematics | 6) Physics |
| 7) Biological Science | 8) Information Science | 9) Green Science and Engineering |

2. GREEN SCIENCE AND ENGINEERING DIVISION

The Green Science and Engineering Division was established in September 2013. It occupies a special position among the nine divisions. First, the entire educational program, including lectures and research guidance, is conducted in English. In addition, emphasis is given to environment and sustainability-related studies, which are vital to the future of mankind. To foster cross-disciplinary education, faculty members from the other eight divisions will be involved in teaching and research guidance. At the same time, by joining the research group of the faculty member of their choice, students can receive research guidance and pursue advanced education for thesis research.

3. DEGREES

The following degrees will be awarded after the completion of each program. They are all accredited by the Japanese Ministry of Education, Culture, Sports, Science, and Technology (MEXT).

Master of Science in Green Science and Engineering

Doctor of Philosophy in Green Science and Engineering

4. RESIDENCE

As determined by MEXT, the standard residence requirement is two full academic years (four semesters) for the M.S. degree, with the possibility of early graduation. For the Ph.D. degree the requirement is three full academic years (six semesters). The maximum time allowed to complete all the requirements for the M.S. degree is four full academic years and for Ph.D. degree is five full academic years, excluding the period of time spent on leave of absence from the university.

5. TRANSFER OF CREDIT FROM OTHER UNIVERSITIES

The GPST can accept up to 10 credits transferred from a M.S. student's previous work as a graduate student. Transfer of such credits must be approved by the GPST faculty.
